MESSAGE FROM THE DEAN

Welcome to the Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine! We’re delighted that you have joined us, and look to you to create a medical school for the future that maintains the consistent quality of our past. You’re becoming a part of a rare group of pathfinders, innovators, and exemplars – whether they be clinicians, educators, or researchers. You’re also now part of a family that respects and encourages voluntarism, community service, and advocacy. Finally, we hope you will explore and refine osteopathic principles and practice, so that these qualities can be made available for generations to come. Please be proactive about meeting our faculty, staff and students, and I personally look forward to getting to know each of you better. Welcome!
